M.S. AAD Columbia University

B. Arch Iowa State University

Assistant Professor Chris Beorkrem teaches studios, seminars and workshops in digital design and fabrication at the School of Architecture. He is Co- coordinator of the Digital Arts Center in the College, which focuses on research in both the physical and analytical realms of digital design. Chris practices in the Charlotte area with Happy Box Architecture, where he is engaged in design projects at a variety of scales. Through his teaching, practice, and research he is in search of the balance between the legibility of form and the efficient use of time, machines and material.
